Subject: !REMINDER! Teleconference for Cook Inlet Tribes Re: Cook Inlet General Permit - DRAFT Reproposal of Produced Water Limits- TODAY 12:00-1:00AK

Greetings All!

At our Southcentral Alaska GAP meeting in December there was interest in having a teleconference with EPA to learn more about the proposed changes in this permit. The Project Manager Hanh Shaw can join us TODAY Tuesday January 25 to give an overview of the permit and the changes, and to try to answer any questions you may have. Hanh has also offered to extend the deadline for comments through Monday January 31, 2011.

Call Time: 12:00-1:00pm Alaska
[Ex. 6]

Please get on the call today if you or other representatives of your tribal government would like to know more.

Thanks!

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) plans to re-propose produced water effluent limits in response to the recent Ninth Circuit Court decision granting our request for a partial voluntary remand of the less stringent limits. The attached draft fact sheet explains EPA's rationale for this proposed action.

EPA would like to offer the Cook Inlet area Tribes the opportunity to review and comment on our draft fact sheet and preliminary draft permit re-proposal, prior to the public review period. I would appreciate your comments by Friday, January 14, 2011.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.
